We believe that this seminar aligns with the city's goal of promoting economic development and financial literacy among its citizens. By attending, we aim to:

- Deepen our understanding of economic and financial concepts: The seminar will provide us with valuable insights from industry experts.
- Develop practical skills: We anticipate learning essential skills such as financial planning, investment strategies, and entrepreneurship.
- Network with like-minded individuals: Connecting with fellow students and professionals will broaden our perspectives and open up potential opportunities.

Last year, our delegates successfully participated in the JPES: Equinomix 2023 and had a chance to ask the National Economic Development Authority (NEDA) Undersecretary, Rosemarie Edillon, certain questions related to possible strategies for Eastern Visayas to achieve economic growth and development despite being prone to numerous disasters. This year, the event will also discuss important topics such as; ASEAN's Role in Shaping a Resilient, Inclusive Future for the Philippines, and Laudato Si and the Path to Sustainable Development: Balancing Economic Growth with Environmental Stewardship. We believe that participating in this seminar will not only enhance our academic knowledge but also prepare us for future challenges and opportunities.

We understand that financial constraints can limit students' opportunities for academic enrichment. Therefore, we humbly request your support in covering the costs associated with transportation, accommodation, and other related expenses. The total estimated cost for our
