Dear President Tulin:

We would like to submit the final output of the reviewed graduate programs 2023 of the Department of Agronomy for your perusal. This output is based on the comments and suggestions during the curriculum and instruction review of graduate degree programs that was spearheaded by the Graduate School last August 31 – September 1, 2023, to align the programs to the CHED CMO 15, series of SY 2019.

Attached herewith are the minutes of the meeting with photos of the workshop held on September 27, 2023, in our department for your information. The workshop was actively participated in by almost all regular and part-time faculty members and staff in our department including our newly hired Adjunct Professor, Dr. Ruth O. Escasinas.

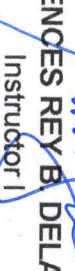

In this light, we may be favored to consider our output for your utmost recommendation and endorsement to the University Curriculum Committee (UCC) for their final approval.

Very truly yours,
