

05 January 2022

Dr. Antonio P. Abamo
Director for Research
Visayas State University

Dear Dr. Abamo:

Greetings!

This pertains to the existing Extension Project of the Department of Soil Science entitled "Enhancing Farmer's Farm Productivity and Capacity on Soil Health Management for Sustainable Crop Production and Environmental Protection in Changing Climate" which has a modification this year. The Visayas State University particularly DSS has signed a Joint Manifestation with the Ormoc-Kananga Mill District Development Council in support to the continuation of the soil health services (e.g. soil analysis and formulation of fertilizer recommendation) provided by the department to MDDC. With this, Dr. Suzette B. Lina revised and expanded the on-going extension project to include not only the soil health services needed by the farmers in Baybay City but also the sugarcane growers in Ormoc and Kananga, Leyte, thus, having a new extension project entitled "DSS Soil Health Services Program (DSOHeSeP)". Kindly see attached details of the revised extension project.

In this connection, may we respectfully endorse the project's revised Work and Financial Plan consisting of the detailed items, particulars, and corresponding costs and if possible with no changes on the total budget requested for your reference.

Thank you for your continued support.

Yours truly,

EDGARDO E. TULIN
President