Greetings of Peace,

I stumble upon your job posting for a Nurse III position at VSU Hospital (formerly known as ViSCA Infirmary), and I am very keen to take up the position. Having born at the said establishment, is one of the major factors why I have decided to work as a Nurse at VSU Hospital. My father- Dr. Beverlo P. Pascual, was a faculty at VSU, and our family have stayed within the premises for more than 30 years.

Way back 2009, I graduated at Cebu Normal University with honors, and without a doubt passed the Nursing Licensure Examination in just one take. Then, I have worked as a Volunteer Nurse from February 01, 2011 to February 12, 2012 at Western Leyte Provincial Hospital. It feels like that one-year of an experience is just yesterday. Now, having my own family, and a father of two made me decide to go back to my profession. Having an item at the same University where I was raised and got my primary and secondary education means Job Security to my family. It will also mean retirement. Those are the things I have considered when I have decided to stop working at a Private Sector or a Freelance Work.

I hope that this intent touches reasoning and emotions.

Yours Truly,

Ryan Beverlo V. Pascual
