Course Details

This course introduces learners to the major concepts and tools for collecting, analyzing, and drawing conclusions from data. Do you want to learn the skills needed to explore data and make statistical inferences? This course takes you through the technology used in investigating, problem-solving and writing to build conceptual understanding. It is an excellent option for those who already possess adequate mathematical knowledge and quantitative reasoning ability. You will explore statistics through discussion and activities, and learn to design surveys and experiments. Study how to select the best methods for collecting or analyzing data. Patterns and trends are pretty common in statistics. Having the ability to describe patterns, trends, associations, and relationships in data is very useful in becoming a top-notch statistician. The course takes you through using probability and simulation to describe probability distributions and define uncertainty in statistical inferences.
