Dear Ma'am Honey Sofia V. Colis,

I am writing to express my deep interest in joining as Philosophy instructor, eager to contribute to the Visayas State University's legacy of academic excellence and intellectual advancement. I bring with me an unwavering passion for philosophy, a disciplined work ethic, and a deep belief in my ability to inspire and connect with the stakeholder.

I hold a Bachelor of Arts in Philosophy, having studied Saint Joseph College and a former seminarian at Pope Paul VI seminary, where I immersed myself in diverse philosophical traditions and honed my critical thinking skills, fostering a deep appreciation for the transformative power of education and inspiring my pursuit of a teaching career. While I may not yet have formal teaching experience, my strengths lie in my ability to articulate complex ideas with clarity, my enthusiasm for encouraging thoughtful and inclusive discussions, and my commitment to ongoing personal and professional development—qualities I am confident will allow me to make a meaningful contribution to your academic community.

I approach this opportunity with humility and a willingness to learn from your distinguished faculty and students. I am confident that the skills and perspectives I have earned from my studies, together with my commitment to the craft of teaching, will enable me to make a meaningful contribution to your department.

Sincerely,
John Lloyd B. Goyo
