With a bachelor's degree in Social Sciences, majoring in Political Science, from the University of the Philippines Tacloban College, I am eager to bring my passion for teaching and research to your esteemed institution.

Throughout my academic journey, I actively engaged with the complexities of my coursework which cultivated an unrelenting curiosity and a genuine passion for the subjects I study. My enthusiasm for the social sciences, particularly in the realms of political science, has continually propelled me toward excellence. I believe that the role of an instructor extends beyond the mere dissemination of knowledge. It involves inspiring students, pioneering the development of innovative instructional materials, and establishing effective teaching strategies that cater to diverse learning styles.

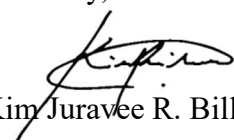

My academic background and experiences have equipped me with a comprehensive set of skills and knowledge that align seamlessly with the responsibilities of a Part-Time Instructor at Visayas State University. I am adept at creating a dynamic and interactive learning environment that encourages students to think critically and engage deeply with the material. My teaching philosophy centers around fostering an inclusive and supportive classroom where every student feels valued and empowered to contribute.
