TEACHING PHILOSOPHY

I am a Social Science Teacher seeking for an opportunity to elevate my professional practice while helping students appreciate the value of this field and prepare them to become responsible, respectable, and responsive individuals in our society. I view learning as a "two-way process" wherein both the teacher and student learn while they engage with each other in an interactive environment. I am a believer of constructivism, thus, I espouse the application of student-centered strategies and value the sharing of ideas and experiences in the classroom. I also engage students in activities that require collaboration, problem-solving and feedbacking. As a 21st century teacher, I use appropriate technology, tools, and methods in delivering instruction.
