R E: Additional Participants to the Seminar-Workshop on “Competency Based HR System and implementation of Competency based Recruitment, Selection and Placement and Learning & Development”

Competencies are the most critical knowledge, skills and attitudes that would lead to successful performance using observable indicators. By using competency based HR approach, organization can identify what positions at which levels require specific competencies. Thus, assessing existing competencies of either an applicant for any vacant position and developing existing employees and introducing other human resource actions such as reassignment, detail, designation, and even rewards and needs to be competency based. Aside from ensuring improved organizational effectiveness, the university will become compliant of the Competency based HR which is required by the university to be classified as level 3 by the Civil Service Commission under its Program to Institutionalize Meritocracy in Human Resource Management (PRIME-HRM).

Although the university already have its proposed Competency Model with framework, rubrics of behavioral indicators, instrument for assessing applicants, etc., the system can only be fully integrated and implemented if the stakeholders are already trained and knowledgeable what is competency based HR and how this can be implemented university wide.

Ms. Jocelyn Linsao-Ng, one of the topnotch expert trainor of the Civil Service Institute of the Civil Service Commission and the resource person of the Civil Service Institute in its regular training on Competency-based HR will act as the resource person of this seminar-workshop.
