About PAEDA

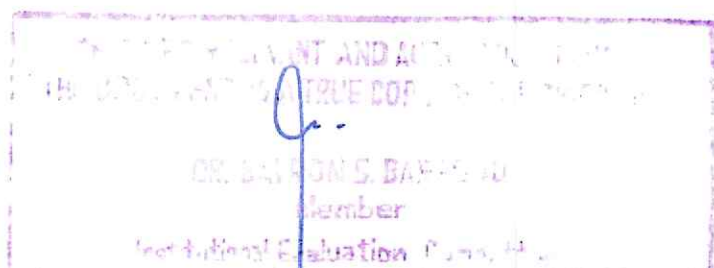

PAEDA or the Philippine Agricultural Economics and Development Association, Inc., is a non-profit non stock corporation established in 1954 by pioneer Filipino professionals in agricultural and development economics from the University of the Philippines Los Baños and various government offices, for the primary objective of promoting small-farmer productivity and profitability in the Philippines.

Towards this end, PAEDA helped established the National Bureau of Agricultural Economics (now the Bureau of Agricultural Statistics) as well as the various agricultural economics departments in major Philippine agricultural colleges and universities.

PAEDA takes position, makes recommendations, and where appropriate, takes action on critical agricultural and countryside development issues by encouraging the establishment of, and actively cooperating with different agricultural associations. At present, PAEDA has over 600 members across the country coming from the academe, government agencies, non-government entities, and local and international R&D institutions.

Objectives

- 1) Provide a forum for the consideration and analysis of problems and issues in agricultural and overall economic development;
- 2) Analyze and make recommendations on the methodology and content of teaching, research, and extension in agricultural economics and development;
- 3) Help promote general welfare of the Philippine society through the formulation of development policies and strategies;
- 4) Engage in consultancy services and other income generating as well as service oriented projects;
- 5) Further professionalize the field of agricultural economics and agribusiness management and help promote the interest of its members; and
- 6) Invest and deal with the monies and properties of the association so that the same shall bear fruits and shall increase to the benefit of the association.
